

Statement on Corporate Environmental Policy

WILD STONE's environmental strategy is to focus on the following areas to help protect and improve them:

We are passionate about environmental protection, which means:

- We behave in an environmentally friendly manner, not only within the premises of WILD STONE, but also within the premises of our clients.
- We adhere to measures aimed at preventing environmental pollution, and we support environmental protection continuously.
- We comply with all the applicable legislative requirements relating to the environment, as well as other relevant requirements.
- We sort waste thoroughly and consistently.
- We use (water and electricity) resources economically.
- We check regularly the emissions of our company cars and/or cars used for business purposes.
- We look for opportunities to contribute to better environmental protection.

Our employees / subcontractors are informed and educated in the field of environmental protection:

- We ensure that our employees / subcontractors are informed and educated in the field of environmental protection and we take the following measures:
- we provide information through internal campaigns, circulars, information emails, etc.,
 - we educate our employees through internal training,
 - we support activities in the field of environmental protection among our employees.

We are a firm with a positive attitude towards the environment. In practice, this means that:

- We strengthen the perception of the WILD STONE brand as a 'company that cares about environmental protection'.
- We dispense ideas in the area of environmental protection through WILD STONE employees.
- We publish information that we meet the requirements set out in the ISO 14001 standard, thereby demonstrating our interest in environmental matters.
